

Boeing Recruiting (Due Sunday)

Boeing Berkeley Campus Team will be back on campus September 18-20 recruiting for 2014 internships and full-time positions.

Requisitions for full-time and internships will be open until September 8th. We will be conducting interviews while we are on-campus in September, so students interested in opportunities with Boeing are highly encouraged to apply by September 8th.

See attached file for more information.

Bio-Manufacturing to Market program: PAID internships for Undergrads

Now in its second semester, the Bio-Manufacturing to Market program creates multi-disciplinary, team-based PAID internships for science and engineering undergrads as well as MBA students at UC Berkeley with industry partners in our East Bay.

We are happy to announce a variety of science, engineering and business internship opportunities for Fall 2013 and are now accepting student applications on-line (deadline for applying is Friday, September 20).

Fall semester opportunities can be found at: <http://vcresearch.berkeley.edu/bio2market/fall-2013-opportunities>

Please contact Tiff Dressen in the Office of Research at UC Berkeley if you have questions (tddressen@berkeley.edu).

Berkeley Master of Financial Engineering Class Visit and Info Session. (Monday)

The Berkeley Master of Financial Engineering program invites you to join us on September 9 at the Haas School of Business for an opportunity to get a first-hand look at the MFE Program by sitting in on a session of Nancy Wallace's Asset-Backed Securities Markets course and then joining the MFE staff and some current MFE students for lunch and Q&A. You can attend the course alone, lunch and Q&A alone, or both together.

If you are interested in a career in industry and have strong quantitative skills (major or prior degree in math, computer science, economics, finance, operations research, engineering, physics, statistics, and related fields) or simply have a passion for finance, this will be a great opportunity to see whether the Berkeley MFE is a possibility for you. During our sessions, you will have the opportunity to hear from our admissions staff, current students, and from our executive director, who will provide on-the-spot resume reviews. You will learn about the admissions process, the program, and career paths post-MFE.

Lunch Served for those who register for the Info Session at 12:00. Vegetarian options will be available.

For more information and to RSVP, see the details below:
